

Brad Mehl MHA, ACS, RDCS, RVT, RDMS, RT(R), FASE; skilled cardiovascular sonographer with extensive experience in performing diagnostic ultrasound studies on patients and athletes.

Brad earned his ultrasound degree from Southwest Missouri Allied Health and his MS in Healthcare Administration from Oklahoma State University.

Brad currently serves as the System Director of Ultrasound for the Oklahoma Heart Hospital and as the Clinical and Education Coordinator for Athletic-Heart. He has over 22 years of experience in the field of ultrasound.

Brad is currently serving on the University of Oklahoma Health Science Center and Oklahoma State University Sonographer Advisory Boards as well as the American College of Cardiology Faculty Member for Advanced Concepts for the Echocardiographer: Hypertrophic Cardiomyopathy (ACE-HCM). Brad is a coauthor and has served on different tasks force for the American Society of Echocardiography.